

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15

This policy was recommended by the Academic Senate on February 11, 2010 and approved by the president on March 3, 2010.

This policy defines the philosophy, goal, objectives, responsibilities, and purposes of the undergraduate academic advising program at California State University, Long Beach.

Academic advising is an educational activity that is inextricably linked with student learning and success. Advising

108
109
110

5. Developing criteria for those who serve as advisors;
6. Keeping advising materials current and available to advisors and students;
7. Designating an area on department bulletin board or electronic equivalent for public display of advising materials.

164
165
166
167
168
169
170
171
172

- d. Oversee periodic and thorough reviews of academic advising culminating in a report to the Academic Senate.

All advising programs and units shall undergo regular program reviews. University-wide programs and units will fall under the purview of either the Program Assessment and Review Council or the program review process in the Division of Student Affairs. College offices will be responsible for departmental advising and college-based advising units. The associate vice president for undergraduate studies and academic advising will collaborate with advising units and programs to communicate assessment plans and results-based improvements.

EFFECTIVE: fall 2010